EDITORS VIEW

Tonight we extend a warm welcome to the officials, players and supporters of our illustrious visitors Spartak Moscow and trust they enjoy their short stay in the Province.

Glentoran undoubtedly face an uphill task to overturn the two-nil deficit from the 1st Leg in Moscow, however as records show in our last appearance in the European Cup back in 1981 we returned to the Oval with a similar scoreline from a visit to Sofia. Against all the odds the part-timers of Glentoran put up a tremendous performance against the highly rated CSKA team and indeed pulled back the two goal deficit to take the game to extra-time. In the extra period we were most unfortunate to concede a goal from a free-kick situation when the ball struck Terry Kingon and deflected past the hapless Alan Paterson who had the original course of the ball covered.

From all accounts the Spartak side we face tonight are one of the best club teams Glentoran have ever come up against in European competition, a supremely fit and skillful outfit it is obviously a 'David and Goliath' contest but hopefully with a good crowd in the Oval getting behind the Glens from the start maybe we can get an early goal and rattle our opponents.

A good size crowd is of course essential if the high costs of our 1st leg trip to Moscow is to be offset. It is pleasing to note the commitment given by the Board of Directors not only Glentoran's but at other Irish League clubs to participation in European Competition. The costs can be heavy but players can only benefit from playing at this level and it gives players and supporters alike something to look forward to although it is sometime since the Glens last drew a 'big name' club.

So here's hoping for an entertaining and exciting game this evening and while Glentoran might not progress to the next round I'm sure they will once again maintain the unsurpassed record they have amongst local sides playing in European competition.

TOMMY TALKS

TOMMY JACKSON: MANAGER: GLENTORAN F.C.

Tonight we face in European Cup competition probably the best club side I ever seen, a side whose pace and skill will I am sure delight our own supporters and neutrals alike.

Looking back to the first leg game I cannot praise the efforts of the players enough for it was a tremendous achievement for part-timers to hold the Soviet Champions to 0 - 0 for fifty-three minutes of the game. Indeed we had two good chances in the first half, which, if they had been converted would have made our opponents work so much more difficult. Their first goal was also somewhat lucky as the poor state of the pitch conspired against Alan Paterson when a long range effort dipped under his body. However 'Paddy' was in tremendous form at other stages of the game and saved our bacon on several occasions.

For tonight's game we have certainly not given up on the tie but we must be wary of throwing caution to the wind and getting caught on the break. European competition is about patience and holding the ball until chances can be created. Once created however we must accept them and punish the opposition. I also got the impression that our visitors were not too keen on the physical side of the game and if they have a weakness it could be that they do not relish being tackled.

You, the supporters have a part to play as well getting behind the team from the start and if the team get the backing that they received from the fantastic crowd who followed us to Moscow then I'm sure the Russians will know they've been in a game.

THANK YOU

I would like to take this opportunity to thank most sincerely all those who have assisted in the production of this issue of the Gazette, especially Mr. Roy Kitson editor of the Bangor F.C. programme for his invaluable contributions on our visitors, Moscow Spartak and Thomas Sewell (Ballymacarrett G.S.C.) for the photos from Russia.

THE MOSCOW 'REDS'

When Glentoran take the field against the red and white clad Spartak at the Oval this evening the East Belfast team will be facing a task as daunting as any in their long history of European competition. For make no mistake Moscow Spartak are a class outfit as those who saw the first leg in Moscow will testify - as studded with stars as Benfica, Glasgow Rangers or Juventus with whom the 'Glens' enjoyed epic encounters in the past.

CAPTAIN: Best known player for Spartak is 31 year old goalkeeper Rinat Dasayev, captain of his club and country and rated by many as the worlds number one. Dasayev has won well over eighty international caps and has twice (1980 and 1982) been voted Soviet 'Player of the Year' - this year he came third in the poll. Despite a troublesome knee injury dating back ten years, for which he has been receiving hospital treatment and which has entailed him missing several important league matches, it will be a big surprise if Dasayev does not lead his team out onto the pitch tonight. Incidentally, it is rumoured that he may obtain permission to play for a club in Western Europe.

DEFENCE: In defence Spartak this season are missing 29 year old Vagiz Khidiatulin - a mainstay of the Championship winning side who is now playing in France with F.C. Toulouse. International Alexander Bubnov, 32 years old, has attempted to take on Khidiatulins mantle.

MIDFIELD/ATTACK: Spartaks real strength is an attractive and fluid attacking game in which midfield and front men combine and interchange to make a potent strike force. International Sergei Rodionov - he celebrated his 26th birthday just three days before the Moscow tie and 29 year old Fyodor Chevenkov shared the scoring honours with twelve goals apiece in the championship team - Spartak were leading scorers in the thirty games league with forty-nine goals. Last season Spartak also won the Federation Cup - a Soviet version of the 'league cup.'

MAN IN CHARGE: Author of the team's success - they have not finished out of the top three since 1979 winning the Championship twice in 1979 and 1987 - is 68 year old manager Konstantin Beskov who has been with the club since 1977. The former Moscow Dynamo star has three times been in charge of the Soviet national side!

TRADITION: A club with a tradition second to none in the USSR, Spartak was founded in 1935 to represent the Trade-Unionists of Moscow and has been League Champions eleven times and cup winners nine times. No wonder Spartak are as popular in Moscow as those other 'Reds', Liverpool and Manchester Utd are in Britain. They draw the biggest crowds of all the Moscow Clubs and are regularly watched by 40,000 spectators.

PRESIDENT: The president of the club is the man who is credited with founding the team in 1935 - Nikolai Stavostin, one of the all-time greats of Soviet Football and one of four brothers who all played for the club in the same team in the mid-thirties.

He is known by the players and fans as - 'grandfather' - a term which implies both affection and respect and he has been called the soul of the club which despite its size and success has as its main strength a sense of belonging to a family for players and supporters alike.

SPARTAKS EUROPEAN RECORD

This is Spartaks fifteenth European "campaign" and their third in the Champions Cup. Spartak have played twice in the Cup Winners Cup and ten times in the UEFA Cup.

Last season they crashed out of the UEFA Cup in the second round in spectacular fashion. After winning their first leg match against Werder Bremen 4 - 1 in Moscow Spartak lost 6 - 2 after extra-time in West Germany to go out 6 - 7 on aggregate.

Spartak have three times reached the quarter-finals of European Competitions - once in each of them.

Highest victories were 5 - 0 against Jeunesse d'Esch (Luxembourg) in 1980 and 5 - 0 against HJK Helsinki (Finland) in 1983. Heaviest defeat was that debacle against Werder Bremen.

SOCCER IN THE SOVIET UNION

USSR Area: 8,598,678 square miles; Population: 266,560,000;

Football in Russia began to develop simultaneously but independently in several centres in the late 1800s. In the cotton mills around Moscow factory teams were formed on the initiative of British engineers and skilled workers. Football also developed in the ports visited by British vessels - in the north, on the Baltic and Black Sea coasts and even as far east as Vladivostock. The first competitions were organised in the early 1890s and with the development of industry football spread to the towns: a Moscow League was formed in the late 1890s. The Soviet Football Federation was founded in 1912 and following the 1917 Revolution football teams grew up under the aegis of various industries and the Army.

There was little Soviet participation internationally until after World War II. The USSR played just three matches, all against Turkey in 1928, 1929 and 1935. Then in 1945 a talented Moscow Dynamo team toured Britain without defeat and defeated the then powerful Nonkoping of Sweden 5 - 0 on the way home. The Soviet national side entered the World Cup for the first time in 1958 and Lev Yachin was established as the outstanding goalkeeper of his epoch. He played in the side that won the first ever European Championship (then the Nations Cup) along with long serving captain Netto and skilful goalscoring midfielder Ivanov. In recent times the Soviet side performed very well in the 1986 World Cup and of course they lost in this years European Championship final to Holland with three Spartak players in their squad. The national side has of course in recent years been dominated by players from Dynamo Kiev who have been the dominant force in club football in the Soviet Union.
